Recognizing Science and Technology ( S&T ) as a vital tool for stimulating and strengthening the socio-economic development in the State, the Government of Telangana established Telangana State Council of Science & Technology (TSCOST) with the catalytic initiative of the Department of Science & Technology (DST), Government of India. TSCOST functions under the aegis of the Department of Environment, Forests, and Science & Technology, Government of Telangana.

I am sure that you would agree with me that the progress of any state depends mainly on the spread of knowledge of Science & Technology among its citizens as also the application of relevant research and developmental efforts for alleviation of problems in Rural/ Urban areas. Further, it is also equally important that our learned Scientific and Academic community should involve in accelerating the progress in prime sectors of economy and also in the development of new knowledge leading to discoveries in Science & Technology.
