about warangal

The Tri-Cities of Warangal-Hanmkonda-Kazipet, together known as Warangal is the second largest city in the Telangana. It enjoys the unique distinction of being the capital of great family of rulers known as the kakatiyas, who established their sovereignty over vast areas of the telugu speaking country between 1150 AD and 1323 AD. The benevolent kakatiya rulers brought a political stability, economic prosperity, linguistic and cultural unity, artistic splendour and literary efflorescence to the kingdom they built. The distinct term “kakatiya” strikes an emotional chord in the hearts of the telugu people. The artistic beauty of the temples with excellent sculpture of unique style, evergreen wild life sanctuaries, and glittering tanks are a feast to the eye. The amazing thousand pillar temple, the bhadrakali and the padmakshi temples, warangal fort, the dense forests of eturnagaram and pakala, laknavaram lakes and other destinations are the important tourist spots in and around warangal.

the thousand-pillar temple

The thousand -pillar temple built by Rudra Deva is the most important monument in Hanamkonda. Perched elegantly in the heart of the city, this temple is dedicated to Rudra, Vishnu and Surya. This temple was constructed by Rudra Mahadeva of the Kakatiya Dynasty in 1163 AD. The highly ornate workmanship on the doorway of the garbagruha, the artistry on the massive pillars and on the ceiling charms the devout and the tourist alike. The celebrated Nandi, a massive monolithic masterpiece of granite, is the main attraction here. Kalyana Mandapam, Part of the temple, is under renovation.

the bhadrakali temple

Situated atop a hillock between Hanamkonda and Warangal, it is one of the oldest Devi temples in this part. It is famous for the stone image of Goddess Bhadrakali. Eight-armed, with weapon in each hand, she is shown in an eye-catching posture, bestowing her benevolent blessings on all the devotees. Built in the days of the chalukyas, the temple is situated on the bund of a big Bhadri Tank, panoramic amidst the bare boulders atop the hill and the silent waters below.

The temple is believed to be built by king pulakesi 2 of chalukya dynasty around 625 A.D. to commemorate his victory over vengi region of Andhra Desham. This can be observed from the square pillars used in the temple structure which were different from the circular pillars commonly used in the temples constructed by kakatiyas who adopted Goddess Bhadrakali as their “Kula Devatha” giving preference to Her to other Goddesses. The lake was built later by Ganapathi Deva. A road leading to the temple was also added during that period.
