Vice-Chancellor Speaks...

Greetings on the eve of Independence Day and University Formation Day.

Important moments such as these call for introspection for charting future course of action. A university's consolidation depends on strengthening the established courses and launching new ones keeping in view the fast changing needs of the society. Apart from research and academics, its image gets reflected in the infrastructural facilities. I have taken these up on a priority basis and we have started new job-oriented courses from the academic year 2012-13. We look forward, with great expectations, to the XII Plan period. After diligent exercise we have sent proposals to the University Grants Commission to the tune of one hundred crore rupees towards development activities and for introducing new courses and centres in thrust areas.

I wish to place on record my heartfelt gratitude to the Hon'ble Chief Minister, Sri N. Kiran Kumar Reddy, and Deputy Chief Minister, Sri C. Damodar Raja Narasimha for the substantial increase in the block grant of our University. It will immensely facilitate us to pay attention to some core areas. The gesture of the government also places an onerous responsibility on us to live up to their expectations and the society. If we continue our teaching and research pursuits and look after the interests of the students we can convert our university into one of the very best in the country. In the vast University machinery; everyone should feel the responsibility and do something concrete within their sphere for all round growth of the University. In the wake of globalization and privatization, new challenges crop up and we must gear up to overcome such challenges while maintaining the tempo of progress. A number of developmental activities took place in the last six months as could be seen from the reportage in this newsletter. I seek the co-operation of all the teaching, non-teaching staff, students and research scholars, and other stakeholders in taking the University to greater heights.

and the pursuit continues...*

Prof. B. Janardhan Rao Memorial Endowment Lecture

Prof. B. Janardhan Rao memorial foundation organised the X Annual Prof. B. Janardhan Rao Memorial Lecture on February 27, 2012 in the Senate Hall of the University. Justice Sri B. Sudershan Reddy, former Puisne Judge and retired Supreme Court Judge delivered lecture on "Statehood of Telangana: Some Constitutional Dimensions." University Vice-Chancellor Prof. B. Venkat Rathnam presided over the lecture programme. "To accept the argument that proper constitutional governance is possible, with respect to people of Telangana, within integrated state of Andhra Pradesh would be a betrayal of the people of Telangana and also a suspension of all foundations of reasoned thought and action" said Sri B. Sudershan Reddy. The struggle for statehood should go on, he stressed. To stutter in our struggle for Telangana would be an act of moral abandonment of our brothers and sisters. Telangana is one of consistent political and constitutional neglects by successive governments at state and national level, he said. University Vice-Chancellor Prof. B. Venkat Rathnam presiding over the lecture programme said that late Prof. B. Janardhan Rao fought for the rights of downtrodden and especially adivasis. The Endowment Trust donated Rs. 60,000 to Ms Vaishali pursuing medicine course. University Registrar Prof. K. Sayulu, Prof. Revathi, Prof. K. Sitarama Rao, Prof. D.S.Reddy, B. Papa Rao, Buchi Babu were among the present.

National Seminar on Social Movements

A two day national seminar on "Social Movements in India -- Issues and Challenges" was organized by the Department of Political Science of the University during March 2-3, 2012. Raman Megsaysay awardee Mr. Rajendra Singh of Rajasthan inaugurated the seminar as Chief Guest. Addressing the gathering he said that development aspect became a challenge to social movements. In the name of development people are deprived of their right for water, land and culture. The linkage of rivers would only help the industrialists not the people, he observed. They have successfully completed community driven project providing water to 8600 Sq Km area in Rajasthan with the intervention of government. He urged the people to fight for Telangana with social justice in all aspects. Delivering keynote address on the topic Emeritus Professor of University of Hyderabad G. Haragopal said that inequalities in the society led to various types of social movements. Delhi University Professor Himanshu Roy said that social movements mostly occur in backward regions of the world and not found in advanced societies. With advanced technologies like SMS, Facebook, Ineternet there is a revolutionary change in pattern of mobilization. Social movement in Telangana is for progressive facilities, Roy opined. Presiding over the programme University Vice-Chancellor Prof. B. Venkat Rathnam said that it is the support of the people that makes a social movement successful. Seminar Director Dr. G. Veeranna, Prof. K. Raghuram Reddy, Prof. Hussain Khan, Dr. B. Sanjeeva Reddy, Dr. A. Hariprasad were among the present.

National Seminar on "Value Education in Schools"

A two day national seminar on "Value Education in Schools: Issues and Challenges" was organized by Department of Education on March 6-7, 2012. Participating in the inaugural session as Chief Guest University Vice-Chancellor Prof. B. Venkat Rathnam said that seeds are to be sown at the school level inculcating moral and ethical values. Education system is the foundation for future society, he opined. School teachers have the onerous responsibility of shaping the kids into good citizens of the future. Delivering the key note address at the seminar Osmania University Retired Education Dean Prof. M. Sree Ram Murthy said that the objectives of education encompass education for values. The goal of providing value education is to develop in children, awareness, sensitivity, appreciation, reflection, reflective thinking about social/moral ethical values, provide them opportunity to make judgments about what is good and right. Former Vice-Chancellor Prof. V. Gopal Reddy said that teachers should inspire and motivate the students to learn values as part of teaching process. Seminar Director and University College of Education Principal Prof. N. Ramnath Kishan, Dean Prof. S. Mahender Reddy, Dr. Vijayalatha, Dr. Nagalaxmi and about 300 participants took part.

National Seminar on Women Empowerment

The Centre for Women Studies of the University organized a two day national seminar on "Gender Issues: Empowerment of Women" on March 17-18, 2012. Inaugurating the seminar as Chief Guest University Vice-Chancellor Prof. B. Venkat Rathnam said that equal socio, political and economic opportunities should be provided to women. He exhorted women to come up in life with self confidence without depending on their male counterparts. Participating in the programme Director of Taruni Voluntary Organisation and Warangal Child Welfare Committee Chairperson Dr.Mamata Raghuveer expressed deep concern over the diminishing male-female child ratio in the age group of 0-6 years. She pointed out that Warangal has the dubious distinction of having lowest female-male ratio of 912 -1000 in the entire country. She condemned female infanticide and abortions when girl child is found in scanning. She said that it is unfortunate that technology is being misused for sex determination which she considered as an organized medical crime. Netherlands Social Scientist Dr. Jenneke Arens said that inequality between men and women is found not only in under developed countries but also in developed countries. Prof. Vidyavathi, Prof. Md. Iqbal Ali, Seminar Director Prof. K. Manuja Devi took part in the inaugural programme.
