

About the Author

Dr. Suddala Vidya Sagar, working as a Faculty Member in the Department of Economics, Kakatiya University, Warangal, Telangana State. He obtained M.A (Economics) in the year 1996, awarded M.Phil in the year 2000, obtained Ph.D in the year 2006 and PGDCA in the year 2008 from Kakatiya University, Warangal. Having Six years of teaching experience, Dr. Sagar, teaches Quantitative Economics, Financial Institutions & Markets and Computer Applications in Economics at Post-Graduation level. His area of research includes Labour Economics, Rural and Tribal Studies. He is the life member of Telangana Economic Association (TEA). Apart from this, he worked in UGC sanctioned Special Assistance Programme (SAP-DRS) as a Project Fellow and also in different Major Research Projects sanctioned by UGC, ICSSR, Planning Commission and National Council for Rural Institutes (NCRI). He has published extensively both in National and International Peer Reviewed Journals. To his credit, he had more than two dozen research papers.

About the Book

This book is based on both primary and secondary data relating to the growth of non-farm activities in unirrigated area. The present study had been taken up in two Telangana districts revealed that the growth of non-farm sector in the backward districts neither yielded sufficient income nor employment in the non-farm sector. The socio-economic aspects of the sample respondents had also been examined. An analysis of the pattern of non-farm employment had also been analysed. The field observations, suggestions opined by the respondents for their better livelihood were documented in the book.

VAAGDEVI
Publishers

PATTERN OF NON-FARM EMPLOYMENT IN EMERGING RURAL ECONOMY | Suddala Vidyasagar

PATTERN OF NON-FARM EMPLOYMENT IN EMERGING RURAL ECONOMY

SUDDALA VIDYASAGAR

