ABOUT THE SEMINAR

Telangana has emerged as 29th state on 2nd June, 2014. It is the twelfth largest state in area with rich natural resources and fusion of cultures. There would be high expectations from common people for their economic betterment and for opportunities to participate in shaping their destinies in the newly formed state. Growth may be higher in the last two decades but inclusive growth has been missing. Restoring land to the tiller especially in tribal areas, decentralizing development, employment generation, food security, free education and health, identification and realization of natural resources, social security, stepping up physical and social infrastructure are the major challenges in the new Telangana state. There is a need to operationalize an appropriate and gross root level plan for achieving inclusive growth during the next plan period. This should cover the priority areas like Agriculture, Industry, Service and Social sector. It should have an action plan for removing economic and social deprivation across all regions including socially disadvantaged sections of Telangana State. In this context, the department of Applied Economics is going to organize a Two-Day seminar at National level on “Telangana Economy: Inclusive Growth – Issues and Challenges” to provide a forum for deliberation of various issues, concerns and elements related to Agriculture, Industry, Service and Social Sectors as major theme.

Authors are requested to contribute their original and unpublished articles relate to the seminar theme and any other issues relevant to the topic.
